

Susan Toback, Ph.D.
Hogan Coaching Network

Background

A psychologist with 20 years' experience working in human development, including a focus on executive assessment and coaching, Susan has a deep understanding of human capital. Drawing from her extensive background in human development, psychology, linguistics, and systems theory, Susan is cognizant of the leadership issues business executives face today.

Although Susan has expertise as a psychologist, coach, and consultant, her specialty is working with senior executives. She also enjoys team development work, and regularly facilitates Hogan Assessment Certification Workshops and the Hogan Advanced Workshops. Susan has successfully developed two private practices and taught Human Development and Personality Theory at Duquesne University.
